

Practice hands

Henk Uijterwaal

Instructions

On the next pages, you will find a set of hands to practice your bidding in certain situations. Print them out, take the east hands (page 2 to 2) yourself, give the west hands (page 3 to 3) to your partner and start bidding. You can write down the sequences in the space provided if you like. Dealer and vulnerability are noted. Note that the numbering and vulnerability are not following the standard sequences, but are tuned such that east opens on half the boards and west on the other half.

After each hand, or after you have bid a number of them, discuss the hands with partner. If you like, from page 4 onwards, you will find the two hands next to each other.

These hands are computer-generated with the dealer program. Simply put, that means that I have specified the hands as close as possible, then had the computer generate some hands according matching this specification. No attempt has been made to analyze the hands, that is something you have to do yourself. There is also no score like in a regular bidding contest.

This particular set

This particular set is to practice weak 2 bids.
